

The Honest History Book: chapter titles, authors and affiliations

Foreword: Julianne Schultz (Griffith Review)

Chapter 1: Introduction David Stephens (Honest History); Alison Broinowski (Honest History, Australians for War Powers Reform)

Part I: Putting Anzac in its place

Chapter 2: Other people's war: The Great War in a world context Douglas Newton (author, formerly Western Sydney University)

Chapter 3: 24 April 1915: Australia's Armenian story over a century Vicken Babkenian (Australian Institute for Holocaust and Genocide Studies); Judith Crispin (Australian Catholic University)

Chapter 4: Adaptable Anzac: Past, present and future Carolyn Holbrook (Honest History; Deakin University)

Chapter 5: The Australian War Memorial: Beyond Bean: Michael Piggott (Honest History; independent scholar, former National Library of Australia Fellow)

Chapter 6: 'We too were Anzacs': Were Vietnam veterans ever truly excluded from the Anzac tradition? Mark Dapin (author, journalist, Fairfax)

Chapter 7: Myth and history: The persistent 'Atatürk words' David Stephens; Burçin Çakır (Glasgow Caledonian University)

Chapter 8: A century of bipartisan commemoration: Is Anzac politically inevitable? Frank Bongiorno (Honest History; Australian National University)

Chapter 9: Anzac and Anzackery: Useful future or sentimental dream? David Stephens

Part II: Australian stories and silences

Chapter 10: Fire, droughts and flooding rains: Environmental influences on Australian history Rebecca Jones (Australian National University)

Chapter 11: From those who've come across the seas: Immigration and multiculturalism Gwenda Tavan (La Trobe University)

Chapter 12: Bust and boom: What economic lessons has Australia learned?

Stuart Macintyre (University of Melbourne)

Chapter 13: 'Fair go' nation? Egalitarian myth and reality in Australia

Carmen Lawrence (University of Western Australia)

Chapter 14: Australian heroes: Some military mates are more equal than others

Peter Stanley (Honest History, University of New South Wales Canberra)

Chapter 15: Hidden by the myth: Women's leadership in war and peace

Joy Damousi (University of Melbourne)

Chapter 16: Settlement or invasion? The coloniser's quandary

Larissa Behrendt (University of Technology, Sydney)

Chapter 17: Our most important war: The legacy of frontier conflict

Paul Daley (author, journalist, Guardian Australia)

Chapter 18: King, queen and country: Will Anzac thwart republicanism?

Mark McKenna (University of Sydney)

Chapter 19: Australia's tug of war: Militarism versus independence

Alison Broinowski

Chapter 20: Conclusion Alison Broinowski; David Stephens